6. Comprehension

Direction: Read the given passage and answer the questions that follow.

It is not an exaggeration to say that the question of where and when the Black Death, the deadliest pandemic ever, originated is one of the biggest mysteries in human history. After all, the Black Death was the first wave of the second plague pandemic of the 14th to early 19th centuries. It killed some 50-60% of the population in Europe, the Middle East and North Africa and an unaccountable number of people in Central Asia.

Different proposals, based on competing theories, have been put forward. But in 2017, I came across some records describing an intriguing medieval cemetery in Kara-Djigach, Chüy Valley, northern Kyrgyzstan, which I suspected may hold the key. As part of a multidisciplinary team co-led by Maria Spyrou at University of Tübingen, we have now investigated several specimens from individuals buried at that site – and come up with an answer.

The idea that the Black Death originated in the east – territories overlapping, roughly speaking, Central Asia, Mongolia and China – dates back to the contemporaries of the pandemic in Europe and the Islamic world. The modern, academic Chinese origin theory dates back to at least to in 1756-8 and a publication about the history of Central Asia by French scholar Joseph de Guignes.

How does the passage describe Black Death?

- |   |  |

| C) The specimen of human evolution and its evidence | D) The initiator of all the future pandemics   |

Direction: Read the passage given below and answer the questions that follow by selecting the most appropriate option- The ancient Jewish doctrine of 'An eye for an eye, a tooth a tooth' teaches the message of revenge. In real life situations we see that taking revenge is not advisable because one act of revenge by one person leads to the counter action by the other person, ultimately there may be no end to the saga of hate and revenge which would be reenacted by the next generation, and then the one after that. Where would it end? We see this revenge cycle in action in Shakespeare's play Romeo and Juliet. A certain extent of ignorance will exist in all because no one is perfect except, the Almighty, who created this universe. All humans are imperfect in one way or the other, in nature and knowledge. All the human beings are half boiled eggs, none is fully boiled. This is the main problem.
